STEP 1

Take notice of your batteries

We're creating awareness and looking for patterns of the things that drain and recharge our batteries

With this information, we can install strategies and plan moments during your day to increase your energy levels.

Which increases your ability to choose to change your reality.

STEP 2

Track your week

We're creating awareness and looking for patterns that are triggering your nervous system into a heightened state and using your energy.

We're not changing anything yet! Just tracking!

STEP 3

Find the patterns

We noticed the pattern of snoozing our alarm was impacting how we started our morning.

Except THURS as we had a nice connected evening with our partner and regulated our nervous systems.

We noticed the pattern of rumination on TUES and how it cropped up multiple times in the week and ended up draining so much of our energy and by not clearing our head and going for a walk at lunch we just sat in our shit.

And what we did in the evening, impacted whether we snoozed the alarm.

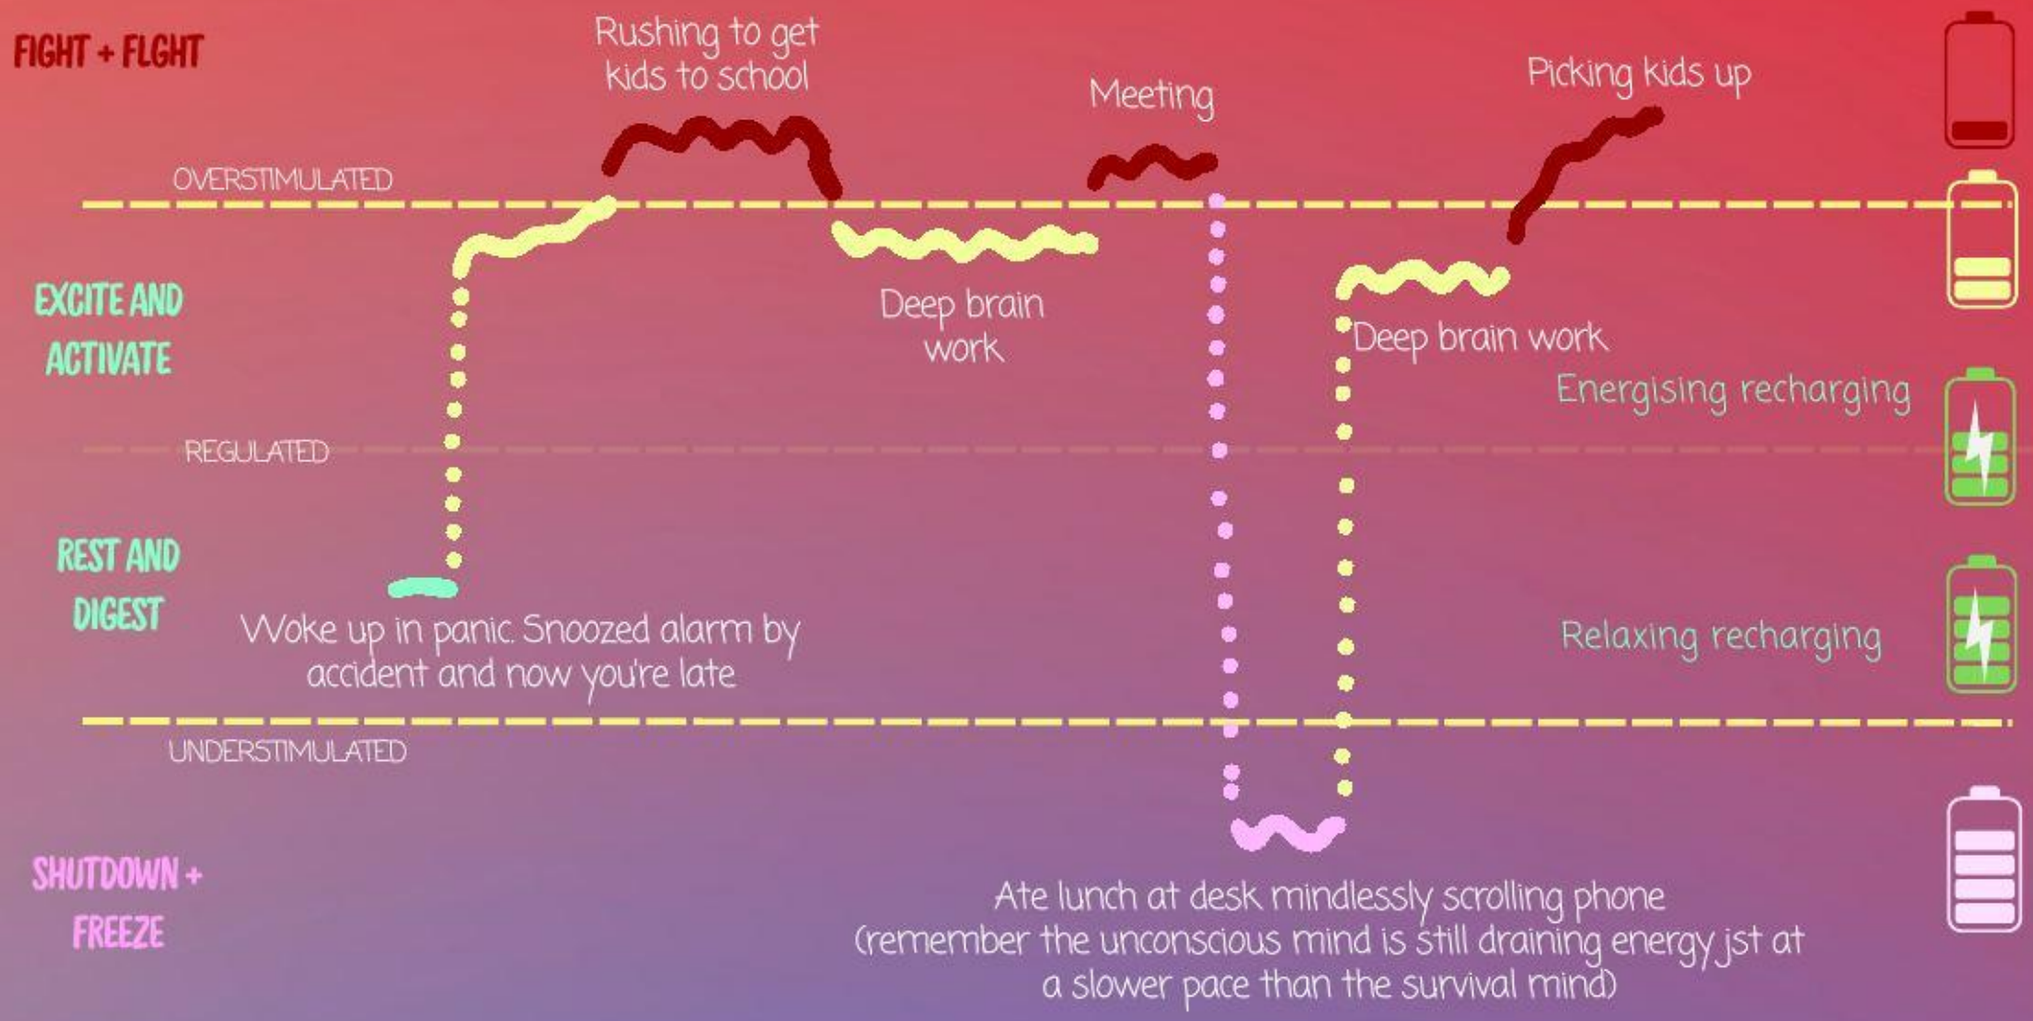

On WED we had great connection with our partner, and therefore we had a great morning.

STEP 4

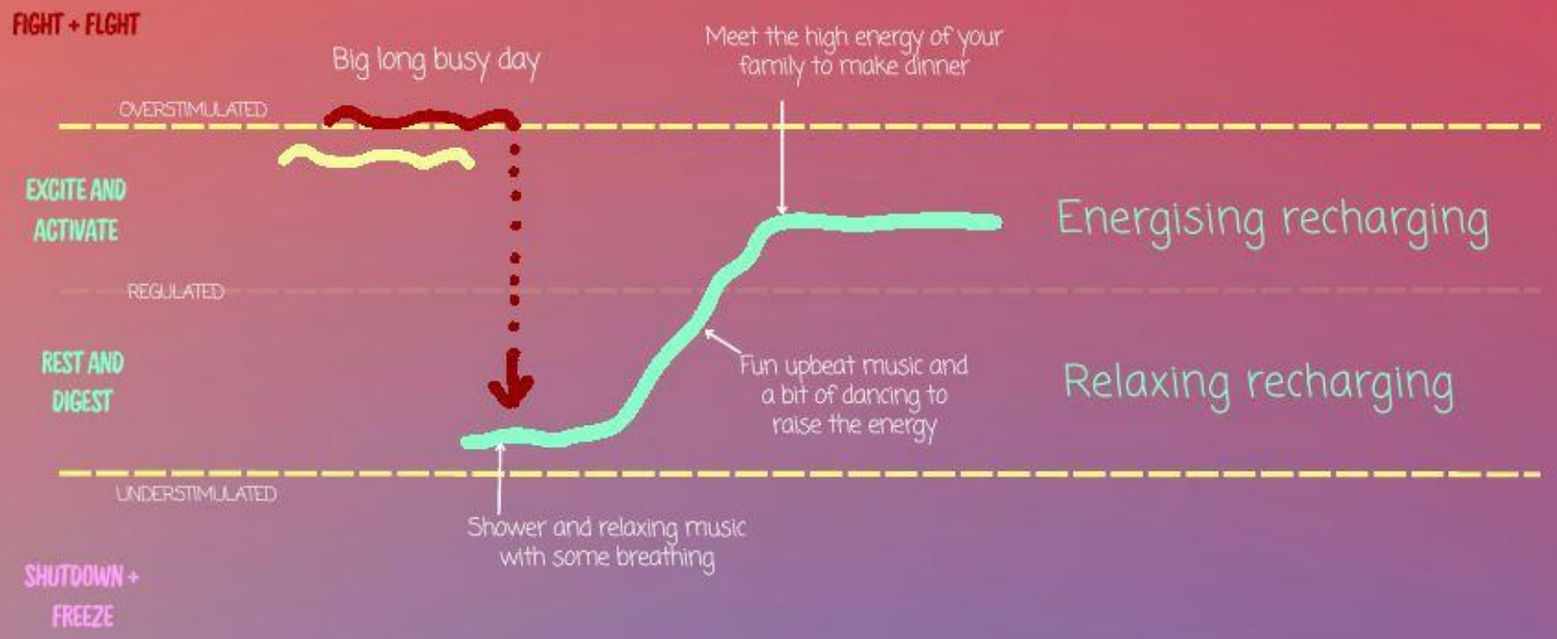

Notice the balance

There is no hard and fast rule about this. It's not 40% green, or 20% red, it's just awareness. Noticing the heavier red day's so you can integrate more relaxing recharging green activities. Or if theres a lot of pink likley you need energising green. It's about balance.

STEP 3

Notice the balance

More red and yellow than green?
You need to add more relaxing green

So for now just fill in all the activities you have pre-planned for the following week without giving them a colour yet.

Colour code the ones you predict are going to be that way.

Based on the past, which do you believe are going to be high, medium or low?

Or drain your battery quickly, slowly or recharge it.

Whilst leaving the possibility open that they can be changed based on what we do before and after them.

STEP 7

Integrate your energy rechargers

Now plan low stim or energy giving activities you can do that will help you get to a regulated baseline and recharge your battery.

Here are some ideas. You know yourself better than I ever will so create your own versions of this.

Wake up before the rest of the house to have some peace and quiet. Sit with your breakfast in silence. Listen to calming music. Do some breathwork. Have a nice long shower.

After school drop off, before you head to work take 5 minutes to do the breathwork video

Quiet lunch. Spend the first half walking and eating in nature, or sitting outside with calming music and eating. To decompress from the overstimulating meeting.
Do a breathwork.
Spend second half socialising with collagues you like.

Take a break and do the breathwork before you leave to pick the kids up, calm music in the car.

Noice cancelling headphones at school sports. Reduce the stimulus.

Calm music on or set the kids up with an activity to do while you cook, one parent occupy them the other makes dinner, whatever works for you.
Or if you're feeling a bet sad and drainined put on a fun socng and dance with the kids in the kitchen.

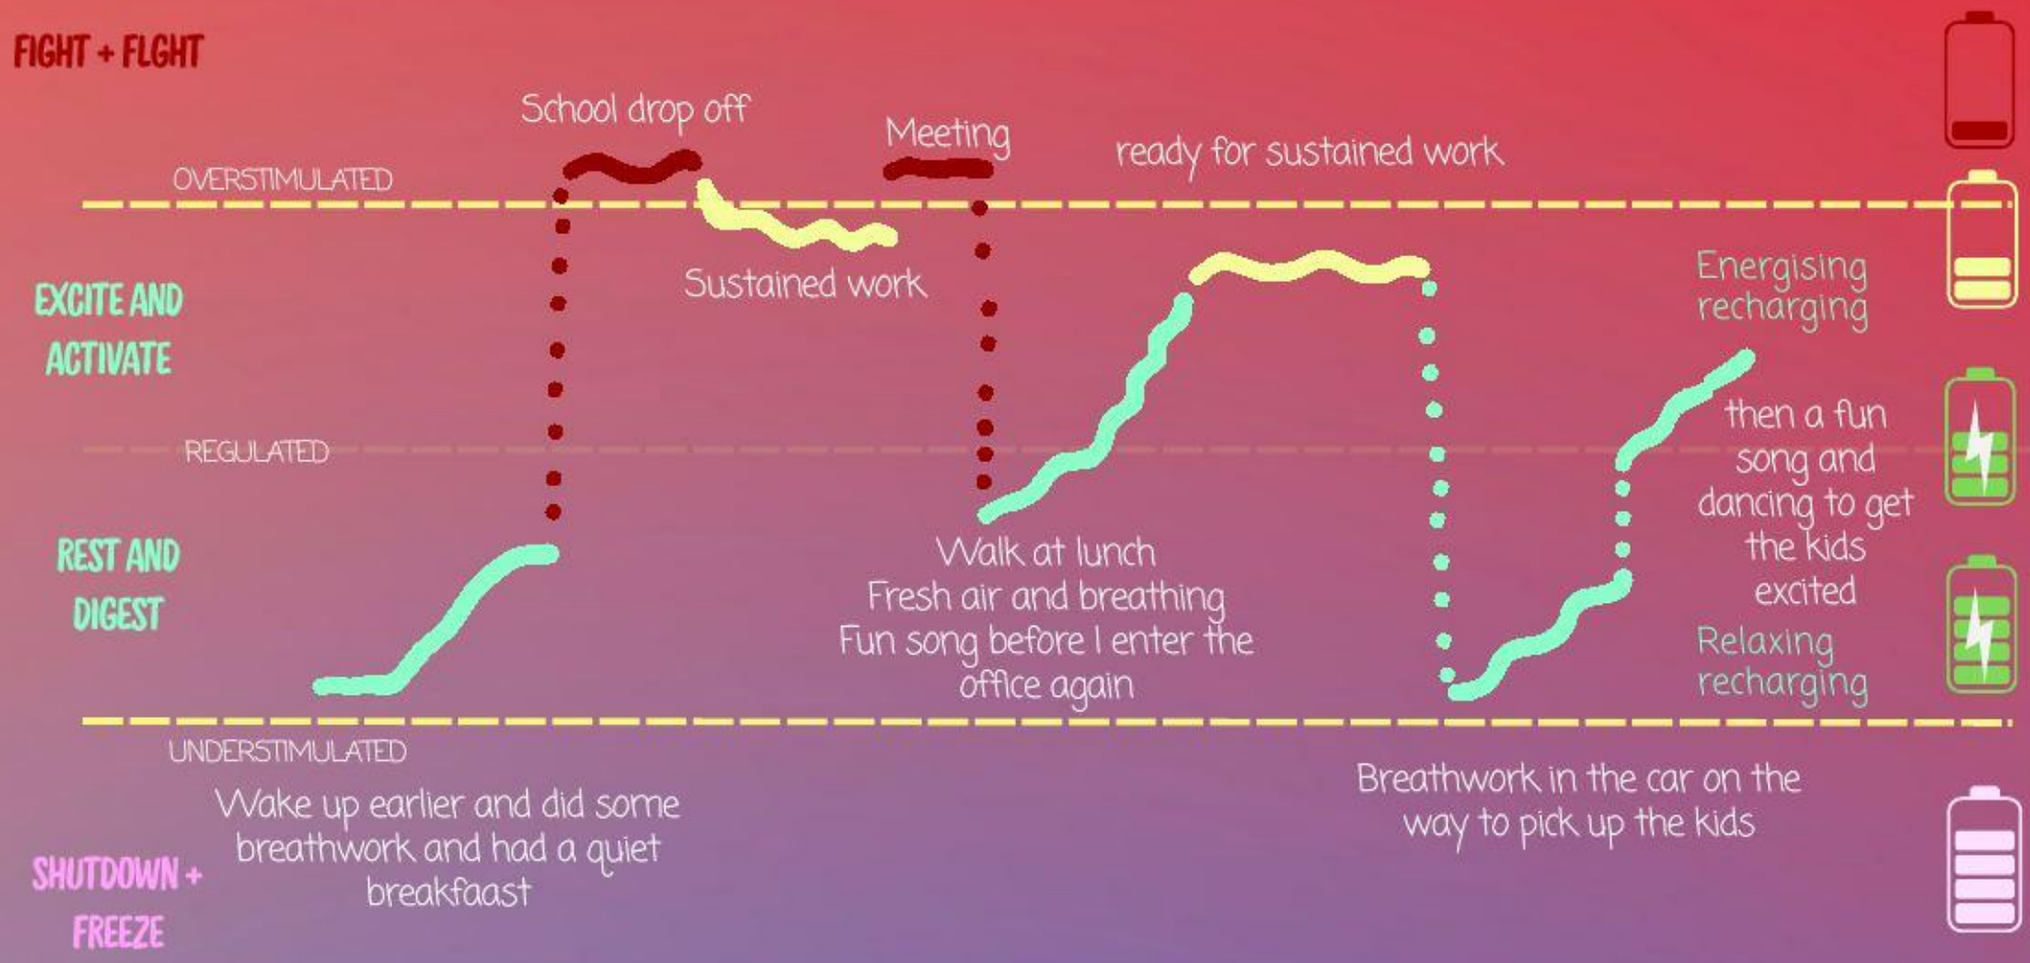

Connect with your partner after kids' bedtime. A long hug, a kiss, and talk about the best part of your day.

Read your favourite book with the lights down low to help you slip into sleep. Do breathwork before you sleep.

Maybe even some more intentional connection with your partner.

Remember it's not about perfection it's about awareness and making small 1% changes to create a more balanced life.

And you won't have to do this forever.

Do it for a few weeks and notice the changes, then after that it's just about maintaining balance and noticing when the scales have tipped to far one way.
